Jhargram offers some of the most exotic vistas of Bengal's landscape, unfolding in hill ranges like Belpahari and Kankrajhor in the north to the tranquil meandering Subarnarekha River in the south. Surrounded by dense forests, this place is mystical.

Lush green forests, ancient temples, historic palaces, verdant villages and simplicity will surely tranquilize you from the everyday bustle. Some ancient temples festooned with trees and meandering creepers add their richness to Jhargram. Not to mention the friendly inhabitants of the region.

Hover around Kurumbera fort, Chilkigarh Palace, Jhargram Palace or Chandrakona temple. Let your mind dwell on the mysterious histories behind the structures.

Kendua - 10 km away from Jhargram - is a beautiful and alluring place to soothe your eyes. Catch a glimpse of migratory birds who gather here for a few months and lay their eggs. Jhargram is a paradise for nature lovers with bountiful forests of sal and teak, wild animals like elephant and deer and a variety of birds.

The year is filled with tribal festivals like Tusu, Baha and Badna celebrating the harvest and life rooted in the soil.

Enjoy discovering the pristine beauty of nature with folk music and dances. This is the ultimate destination for your relaxing weekends.
